2020 U.S. Olympic Swimming Team Notes

usaswimming.org | @USASwimming | @USASwimmingNews | #TokyoOlympics

Ledecky Chasing History:

Katie Ledecky has a resume that speaks for itself: Six Olympic medals (5g, 1s), 18 long course World Championships medals (15g, 3s), 10 Pan Pacs medals (8g, 1s, 1b), 12 U.S. national titles and more. Now, heading into Tokyo, she has the opportunity to cement herself as the winningest female Olympian (most gold medals) of all time. She needs three gold medals to tie Jenny Thompson as the winningest female U.S. Olympian in history, and needs five to earn her place at the top of all-time female Olympians across all sports and nations.

Qualified in four individual events and eligible for relay spots, Ledecky's opportunity sits in front of her in Tokyo. Here is the decorated list of female Olympic gold medalists she is chasing:

- Larisa Latynina | URS, UKR | Gymnastics | 9 gold medals
- Birgit Fischer-Schmidt | GDR, GER | Canoe | 8 gold medals
- Jenny Thompson | USA | Swimming | 8 gold medals
- Marit Bjørgen | NOR | Cross-Country Ski | 8 gold medals
- Věra Čáslavská | CZE, TCH | 7 gold medals
- Valentina Vezzali | ITA | Fencing | 6 gold medals
- Kristin Otto | GDR | Swimming | 6 gold medals
- Amy Van Dyken | USA | Swimming | 6 gold medals
- Lidiya Skoblikova | RUS, URS | Speed Skating | 6 gold medals
- Lyubov Yegorova | RUN, EUN | Cross-Country Ski | 6 gold medals
- Allyson Felix | USA | Track | 6 gold medals
- Katie Ledecky | USA | Swimming | 5 gold medals
- (19 additional athletes tied with five gold medals)

Ledecky will head to Tokyo as the reigning Olympic champion in the 200-, 400- and 800-meter freestyle and as part of the 2016 gold-medal winning 4x200m freestyle relay team.

Should things go Ledecky's way, she could earn the title of greatest female Olympian ever during her time in Tokyo.

The Rookies:

As the U.S. Olympic Team Trials - Swimming went on this past June, one thing certainly became clear: the future is bright. There are 15 athletes on this year's Olympic roster who have never represented the U.S. in a long-course international competition before. Also in the mix of 35 first-time Olympians is a group of 11 swimmers who will be teenagers at the start of the Olympic Games Tokyo 2020:

- Phoebe Bacon | Age 18 (DOB: 08/12/02)
- Claire Curzan | Age 16 (DOB: 06/30/04)
- Kate Douglass | Age 19 (DOB: 11/17/01)
- Katie Grimes | Age 15 (DOB: 01/08/06)
- Torri Huske | Age 18 (DOB: 12/07/02)
- Lydia Jacoby | Age 17 (DOB: 02/29/04)
- Bella Sims | Age 16 (DOB: 05/25/05)
- Regan Smith | Age 19 (DOB: 02/09/02)
- Alex Walsh | Age 19 (DOB: 07/31/01) – turns 20 while team is in Tokyo)
- Emma Weyant | Age 19 (DOB: 12/24/01)
- Jake Mitchell | Age 19 (DOB: 12/22/01)

Oh Captain, My Captain!

The 53-member U.S. Olympic Team voted upon four decorated athletes to hold captain honors for this year's group. After the men voted for the male captains and the women voted for the female captains, here are the names who will hold the prestigious titles in Tokyo.

- Simone Manuel: Two-Time Olympian
- Allison Schmitt: Four-Time Olympian; Captain of 2016 U.S. Olympic Team
- Caeleb Dressel: Two-Time Olympian
- Ryan Murphy: Two-Time Olympian

These four athletes have combined for 17 Olympic medals (11 gold) across their decorated careers.

2020 U.S. Olympic Swimming Team Notes

usaswimming.org | @USASwimming | @USASwimmingNews | #TokyoOlympics

The Dressel Dynasty:

Though Caeleb Dressel tallied two golds at the 2016 Rio Olympics, it was his stretch of performances after Rio that has elevated him to become one of the greatest swimmers in American history. His performance at the 2019 FINA World Championships was about as jaw-dropping as a swimmer can achieve, becoming the first swimmer to ever tally eight medals at a single long-course World Championships competition and picking up numerous records, including the 100m butterfly world record, along the way.

He carried that momentum into June's U.S. Olympic Team Trials - Swimming, winning all three of the events he competed in: the 50m freestyle, 100m freestyle and 100m butterfly. After tying the American record in the 50m freestyle and dominating his other two races, the sky is the limit for Dressel during his time in Tokyo.

History for Schmitt:

After finishing second in the Trials 200m freestyle, Allison Schmitt became one of just seven U.S. swimmers in history to make four Olympic teams. Schmitt is just two medals shy of reaching the 10-medal mark, a number that only 14 female Olympians in history have ever accomplished. With her medals, Olympic appearances and captain selections, Schmitt has become one of the greatest to ever grace the sport.

Making Waves

Among the 53 names on this year's U.S. Olympic Team is a pair of athletes representing more than just themselves and their country. Andrew Wilson, a 2017 graduate of Emory University, is the first NCAA Division III swimmer to ever compete at the Olympics. Wilson is qualified in the 100- and 200m breaststroke events and has been one of the faces of men's breaststroke in the U.S. over recent years.

On the women's side, 100m breaststroke qualifier Lydia Jacoby is the first Alaskan-born swimmer to compete on an Olympic Stage. A native of Seward, Alaska, and representing the Seward Tsunami Swim Club, Jacoby will surely have her entire home state cheering for her during her time in Tokyo.

The Open Water Big Three

For nearly a decade, the trio of Haley Anderson, Ashley Twichell and Jordan Wilimovsky and have dominated U.S. open water swimming. Now, for the first time as a complete unit, they get to compete at the Olympics together.

While these three will look to add to the open water medal total at the Olympics, their careers already place them as some of the best athletes to ever compete in the sport. The trio has combined for 14 Open Water World Championships medals and 15 open water U.S. national titles.

Since the open water 10k made its Olympic debut in 2008, Anderson's silver in the 10K from the 2012 London Olympics is the only Olympic open water medal in U.S. history. With their race in Tokyo, Anderson becomes the first U.S. swimmer to swim in three Olympic 10K's, Wilimovsky becomes the first male to swim in two, and Twichell becomes just the seventh American to compete in the event.

The Face of Backstroke

After qualifying in the 100- and 200m backstroke events, Ryan Murphy now has an opportunity to become the greatest backstroke swimmer in U.S. history. With golds in both backstroke events at the 2016 Rio Olympics, Murphy has the chance to become just the second person (first American) to ever have multiple golds in both backstroke events.

Welcome to the Big Stage

Both Regan Smith and Michael Andrew have been in the swimming spotlight for years now, but will finally make their Olympic debuts. Both athletes qualified in multiple events—Smith in the 100m backstroke and 200m butterfly, Andrew in the 50m freestyle, 100m breaststroke and 200m IM—and will now get to make their Olympic debuts.

Time Trial to Tokyo

In what may have been the most unique way a swimmer has ever qualified for a U.S. Olympic Team, it took both a second-place finish in the 400m freestyle and an additional time trial for Jake Mitchell to qualify for this year's U.S. Olympic Team.

At Trials, Mitchell's second-place finishing time did not beat the FINA A Cut, resulting in an additional time trial just two days later to give Mitchell an opportunity to best the time. Mitchell took to the blocks, with thousands watching him and not a single swimmer next to him, and went nearly three seconds faster than his finals swim to beat the FINA A Cut. Mitchell's performance in Tokyo will certainly be a must-watch after his already-incredible journey to make the Olympic Team.
